Kentucky Wood Expo in Lexington, KY

The 2023 Kentucky Wood Expo is excited to announce we will be in Lexington Kentucky for the 35th show. Lexington has a large population and is in the economic center of activity for the state. Set this year for September 15 & 16, the two-day event accenting the forest products industry will be held on Friday and Saturday. Indoor space will be located in two buildings and all spaces will be on a hard surface. Outdoor space is on sod and all spaces are level.

Why Should You be Involved?

Whether you're involved in forest products industries directly or indirectly, the thousands of visitors to the Kentucky Wood Expo are interested in YOUR exhibit. From machinery to service, if it involves wood products or forestry it will be at the Kentucky Wood Expo.

The Kentucky Wood Expo will attract loggers, sawmill and pallet operators, manufactures of forest products and related machinery, retailers and wholesalers, along with the general public. The Kentucky Wood Expo has a number of educational programs including an opportunity to make a FREE cutting board and other programs such as logger training, forest landowner programs and a chainsaw carving competition.

We Can Meet Your Needs!

The Kentucky Wood Expo appreciates all of our exhibitors that attend the show. We pride ourselves on helping exhibitors with everything from offering free loading and unloading and finding whatever you need related to exhibiting at the show. If you have any types of special needs please give us a call and see if we can help.
